

Please do not undermine the intentions of Satellite radio. They are offering a service that I pay for -- every month -- to provide continuous entertainment and information. If conventional radio has an issue with this, then they should consider WHY traditional radio has lost listeners to Satellite Radio's product. Traditional radio has it's place. And now so does Satellite Radio. Please don't dilute what I have been waiting for for so many years. Let the proof lie in the pudding. If free radio cannot compete with paid-radio, then free radio should reconsider how they do business.

Sincerely,
Stephen McCreery
Raleigh, NC